Mrs. Goldstein, Along With Akers, Wakelin and Brock, Is Given Two Years in Federal Penitentiary

LITTLE ROCK—A telegram expressing its appreciation of his work "in behalf of civic righteousness" was received by Fred A. Isgrig, United States district attorney, from the Hot Springs Rotary Club within an hour after the conviction of four Hot Springs residents for conspiracy to harbor Alvin Karpis, one time public enemy No. 1, by a jury in federal court here Saturday afternoon.

Six Arkansas High School Conference Battles This Week

Hope Prepares for Tilt With Blytheville Here Friday Night

WILDCATS VS. ZEBRAS

Razorbacks Meet Rice in Homecoming Battle at Fayetteville

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — (AP) — Intracircuit activity in the High School football conference hits a new high this week with six games on the schedule. Probable number one game of the week will find the Pine Bluff Zebraws, boasting five wins against one tie, entertaining the North Little Rock Wildcats who bounced Benton from the unbeaten-untied ranks last week. The game will be the seventh straight in the conference for the Striped Mules.

The Little Rock Tigers are due to fatten their percentages and add another victory to their unbeaten-untied record when they play the Fordyce Redhubs here. The tuckless Canine Panthers will go to Hot Springs for a bout with the Trojans.

Hope, holding a .667 figure in conference standings, will be hard-pushed to maintain the pace when they toe up with the Blytheville Chickasaws.

El Dorado, bowled over by non-conference Malvern last week after a brilliant tie game with Pine Bluff, will go to Russellville to muffle the Cyclone down to a breeze. The sixth loup game find Clarksville engaged Forrest City thoroughbreds at the Thoroughbred stables.

Other games involving conference teams include: Benton at Conway. Jonesboro at home with Marianna. Fort Smith at home with Muskogee, Okla.

Plan Homecoming

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — (AP) — Two intrastate tilts, two interconference engagements and the University of Arkansas homecoming make up the ingredients for this week's state collegiate football rarchib.

The Arkansas State Teachers of Thursday will start the proceedings Thursday in a game here with the Howard Payne College Yellowjackets from Brownwood Texas. The Teachers, who launched their defense of the state title with a convincing 20-0 victory over Henderson State Teachers last week, will be playing their fifth interconference game of the season. They won three of the previous interstate starts.

Ouchitua College Tigers will meet Arkansas Tech of Russellville at Arkadelphia Friday while Monticello A. and M. will entertain Arkansas State of Jonesboro for the first of a seasonal home-and-home series. The Aggies return the visit next week.

Hendrix College of Conway will be host to the Delta State Teachers from Cleveland, Miss., in the other Friday program. Henderson will be idle.

The university's homecoming foe at Fayetteville will be the Rice Owls.

Scores last week included: Arkansas 7; Texas Aggies 13. Ouchitua 13; Emporia, Kan. Teachers 26. Arkansas Tech 14; Hendrix 0. Monticello Aggie 0; West Tenn. Teachers 50.

Stronger each time out, unbeaten Texas Christian swings into its November schedule next Saturday, and swinging into November is quite significant as concerns Texas Christian.

Not in five years, or since Coach Leo (Dutch) Meyer took hold of the Horned Frogs, has this crew lost more than two games once it edged into November. Centenary sneaked up on them last year and got away with a 10-9 surprise and way back in 1935 Southern Methodist licked them in the greatest of all Southwest games.

"We're usually pretty hard to get along with in November," admitted Coach Meyer.

Next Saturday it is Tulsa's Golden Hurricane at Tulsa, then it is Texas, Rice and Southern Methodist in order. Almost alarming to Christian partisans predicting an unbeaten season is the manner in which Rice is perking up.

The Christians were all powerful in surging over Baylor Saturday, 39-7, whipping up 526 yards in a varied attack, but Rice, its stars benched because of injuries, won it's second game

ROBBERIES HIT CITY

Deadline for City Candidates Near, Twelve Have Filed

W. S. Atkins Only One to File for the Mayoralty Post

OTHERS CONSIDERED

Four Candidates in Race for Alderman in Ward One

Twelve candidates seeking office in the city Democratic primary election November 30 had filed party pledges and paid fees at 2:15 p. m. Monday. The deadline for filing expires at midnight.

Only one candidate for the mayoralty post had filed, although several were considered in political gossip as possible candidates.

W. S. Atkins filed as a candidate for Mayor. Others that have been considered as possible candidates are John L. Wilson, L. F. Higginson, Roy Anderson, J. A. Embree and Albert Graves. Charles Reynerson filed as a candidate for city treasurer. Others seeking office who had filed early Monday afternoon are:

Alderman, Ward One—Carter Johnson, A. C. Erwin, J. R. Williams, J. L. Anderson.

Alderman, Ward Two—Kenneth G. Hamilton, F. Y. Trimble, L. N. Garner.

Alderman, Ward Three—Roy Johnson and W. A. Lewis.

Alderman, Ward Four—Syd McMath. One alderman is to be elected from each of the four wards.

Poll Tax Abolition

Aroused by Bill to Be Voted on in November 8th Election

Editor The Star: Several years ago I was on the school board and I put six children through high school. During the time they were going to school I was only paying a very small tax. I am now in debt now to the State of Arkansas for the education of my children.

In talking to my friend Sheriff Bearden, he told me that they had collected $4700 poll tax that was turned over to the schools of Hempstead county without any expense to the state. Similar amounts have been collected in every county in the State of Arkansas for poll tax receipts, and now I understand that they are about to do away with the poll tax and establish a registration of voters. Doubtless this will give somebody extra employment and become an expense to the schools of Arkansas.

While on the school board I took a census of the schools in a rough way and I found that about 40 per cent of the people who had children in the white public schools were not paying the tax and to my surprise I found about 80 per cent of the negroes who had children in school were taxpayers.

In the last two or three years I have been acquainted with school teachers who have had to depreciate their warrants in order to cash them; and while we are spending too much money for the overhauled expenses of our high schools for football and other exercises, we have not been overpaying our teachers in the common schools.

We ought to have law in the State of Arkansas that every man and woman sending children to school could not take not only their children were vaccinated, but that their parents were poll tax payers. We are now furnishing free school books to the common school which is all right. The parents who are getting free school books are able to pay the poll tax for both months.

Six Municipal Court Cases Heard Monday

Only six cases were heard Monday in a short session of municipal court. The results:

Edward Evans, drunkenness, forfeited $10 cash bond.

Carl Strong, drunkenness, plea of guilty, fined $10.

G. H. Coston, drunkenness, forfeited $10 cash bond.

Mac Trotter, assault and battery, plea of guilty, fined $25.

Bettie Davis, possessing untaxed liquor, plea of guilty and fined $25.

C. T. Thompson was given judgment of $65.10 in a civil suit brought against Ray T. Allen for action on a promissory note.

No state cases were heard, because of the absence of Deputy Prosecuting Attorney W. S. Atkins, who is away from the city due to the illness of a son, Steve, who is confined in a Little Rock hospital.

Fact-Finding Body in Railroad Crisis Rejects Pay Cut

Wages Only One Factor in Trouble Confronting the Carriers

MAY OFFER LOANS

Speculate on U. S. Action—Decision of Roads Still Uncertain

WASHINGTON — (AP) — John J. Polley, president of the Association of American Railroads, said President Roosevelt expressed the hope Monday that an informal committee representing railroad management and labor would draft a constructive program for rehabilitation of the carriers.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt will confer with representatives of railway labor and management Monday in an effort to avert a strike of 1,000,000 rail workers against the proposed wage reduction which his fact-finding board has declared unjustified.

The White House gave no inkling as to what the president would say to the deadlocked parties. There was some speculation, however, that an effort might be made to reach an agreement on recommendations to the next congress concerning liberalization of government railroad loans and other rail legislation.

Some executives in New York predicted that the government might offer the railroads about $1,000,000,000 in easy-term rehabilitation loans, as a "sequel" to the presidential board's recommendation that the managements abandon their proposal to reduce wages 15 per cent December 1.

Although the president's fact-finding board recommended Saturday that the rail managements withdraw their notice of a pay cut, the recommendation is not legally binding.

The managements have not yet indicated whether they will comply. Still up to the president, in the words of one member of the fact-finding board, is the problem of averting the strike which the workers have voted if the reduction is put into effect.

Oppose Wage Cut WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt's Fact Finding Board recommended over the week-end that the railroads abandon their proposal to reduce wages of approximately 1,000,000 employees on December 1.

The railroad managements gave no immediate indications as to whether they would comply. Still up to the president, one board member said, was the problem of averting the nationwide strike which the rail workers have voted if the proposed 15 per cent reduction is put into effect.

The White House disclosed that Mr. Roosevelt would discuss this problem Monday at a conference with George M. Harrison, head of the Railroad Labor Executives' Association, and John J. Polley, president of the Association of American Railroads.

Presumably, the possibilities of other proposed solutions of the railroads' financial plight will be discussed at this conference. The administration's ideas on government aid and legislation at the next session of congress are expected to be canvassed.

Summary of Board's Unanimous Report

The board summarized its unanimous report to Mr. Roosevelt over the week-end as follows:

"1. The wages of railway labor are not high even as compared with wages in other comparable industries.

"2. A horizontal reduction of wages on a national scale would not meet the financial emergency of the industry, since the savings would not be distributed merely to the needy roads.

"3. A wage reduction in the railroad industry would run counter to the trend of wage rates in industry generally.

"4. The financial distress of the carriers which has obtained since October, 1937, when the last wage increases were granted, is as yet a short-term situation. As such, it cannot be regarded as grounds for a wage reduction, especially in view of present indications of an improvement in the business of the carriers.

"5. The board concludes that the proper

Scientists said it would be some time before they could announce the results of their experiment to determine how long the heart beats after being struck.

Deering was executed for the hold-up-murder of a Salt Lake City business man.

Seek to Maintain Spa Radio Station

Governor Bailey Arrives With State Delegation in Washington

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Governor Bailey arrived here with an Arkansas delegation Monday to urge the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to order retention of radio station KTHS at Hot Springs.

The commission is to hear oral argument Tuesday on the proposal to transfer ownership of the station from Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce to Radio Enterprises, Inc., headed by T. H. Burton of El Dorado, who would move the station to the vicinity of Little Rock.

The governor said he did not intend to discuss the Rooksbury ouster with federal officials. He said he would inquire whether there had been any necessary delay by the WPA in passing on Arkansas applications for loans and grants.

CANTON, China — (AP) — The inland port of Wuchow, gateway to Kwangsi province, was evacuated under pressure of a Japanese aerial bombardment Monday, believed a prelude to a Japanese drive in that direction.

Landowners Given Judgment in Suit

Western Union Company to Pay for Damaged Farm Lands

LITTLE ROCK — The Arkansas Supreme Court ruled Monday that the Western Union Telegraph company should pay $9 Pulaski county landowners for flood damage to farmlands resulting from a levee break in 1932.

The plaintiffs claimed that digging a hole in the levee for a telegraph pole weakened the dyke, causing it to crumple when the Arkansas river rose.

The court appointed Carl R. Stevenson, veteran deputy clerk, as clerk succeeding W. P. Sadler, of Van Buren resigned.

Stevenson, connected with the court since 1905, had been chief deputy since 1932. He is the sixth clerk in the history of the court.

Stevenson appointed Ashton Sadler chief deputy, and Frank Cox, former assistant court librarian, as deputy clerk.

$400 Loot Taken in 2 Robberies Here Over the Week-End

Prowlers Make Biggest Haul at B. R. Hamm Residence

NO CLUES ARE FOUND

Pistol, and Small Amount of Change, Stolen From Liquor Store

Police Monday sought clues in two robberies here over the week-end that netted burglars approximately $400 in loot.

The first robbery was at the B. R. Hamm residence, 1500 South Main street, which occurred late Saturday afternoon. The second robbery was at the Robin's Liquor Store, East Third street, which was entered Sunday night.

At the Hamm residence the robbers carried away jewelry, clothing, bed clothing, silverware and other articles valued at between $300 and $400.

Entrance to the Hamm residence was gained by cutting a rear screen door. Inside, the burglars used bed-spreads in which they tied up the loot. One of the bundles was left behind, apparently dropped in a hasty getaway.

However, the burglars took time out to help themselves to fried squirrel and sweet milk which was missing from the refrigerator.

It was believed the robbery occurred soon after dark Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Hamm, who returned home about 7 p. m. from a fishing trip discovered the robbery.

Police were without clues, but expressed a theory that it was a "local" job. There was no insurance on the stolen articles.

The Robin's liquor store on East Third was entered Sunday night through a rear door. Missing from the store was a small amount of change and a pistol. A check-up of the whisky and wine stock showed none missing.

J. R. Williams in Alderman's Race

Lumber Company Owner Seeks Post in Ward One

J. R. Williams, lumber company owner and operator, announced Monday as a candidate for alderman in Ward One, subject to the action of the city Democratic primary election November 30.

Mr. Williams is well-known in Hope, having been a resident here since July of 1931. He said Hope was his permanent home and that he desired to do his share toward the advancement of the community.

Mr. Williams was in the race for the aldermatic post four years ago, asking public office for the first time, and was defeated by a small margin.

In announcing as a candidate again, Mr. Williams expressed thanks to his friends and supporters and urged them to support him in the coming primary.

If elected, Mr. Williams said he would discharge his duties in a business-like manner.

Farm Ownership Lists Open Again

Applications Made Here With Farm Security Administration

The Farm Security Administration Office of Hope, in the old Elks club building, has reopened the taking of applications on Tenant Purchase through the Bankhead-Jones Tenant Act, for both white and negro tenant farms until November 10.

Any tenant farmers who wish to make application can contact the County Supervisor, A. H. Wade, at the Farm Security Administration office for application blanks.

Retrospect

I see an old, old chain.
Some links obscure, some bright—
It represents one's life:
The morn, the noon, the night.

We try to grasp morn's links,
So smooth, unique in kind—
A semblance of the youth
Which we have left behind.

We reach for links of noon
And find our hope denied;
Noon's joys have passed away,
Herself and friends have died.

With links of night in hand,
We never can expect
To live our past again
Except in retrospect.—Selected.

Again it is my sad privilege to chronicle the passing of an old friend, of our youth, a link in a chain that was formed with the first class graduating from the Hope Public School, six girls and two boys, and the passing of Robert E. Lee Sater, who passed on after a lingering illness at his home in Dallas, Monday morning, October 31, the first link in that chain is broken. Robert was the shining star of the class, in his youth he gave evidence of one that "would go far," and is has always been with the greatest pride that we would say, "yes, he was a member of my high school graduating class." For in taking a backward survey this morning, "retrospect" as it were, we visit each member of that class, and try to grasp "morn's links in that chain" and go with each member to see just what we have made of it. We find that most of them have gone out into the world and fulfilled the promise of their youth, others have been compelled to follow the stern line of duty which does not necessarily rank them as failures for it is better, to serve, though it bring not fame, than to be a quitter in life's game.

Robert E. Lee Sater was and has been for a number of years, among Dallas, Texas, leading lawyers, a past president of the American Bar association, and with all of his successes, we can truly say, he never forgot his old home town, nor the old friends living therein, and as one of the remaining links in that broken chain, I want to say:

My friends are little lamps to be,
Their radiance warms and cheers my ways,
And all my pathway, dark and lone,
Is brightened by their rays.
I try to keep them bright by faith,
And never let them dim with doubt,
And every time I lose a friend
A little lamp goes out.—Selected.

The City P. T. A. Council will not meet on Tuesday, November 1, the meeting has been postponed until Tuesday, November 8, at which time there will be an out of town speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Ogburn and son, Jim, and mother Mrs. Bains of Emmet were Sunday visitors with relatives in Shreveport, La.

Mrs. Arthur Johnson of Clanton, Ala., is the house guest of her sister, Mrs. E. P. Stewart, and Mr. Stewart.

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Neighbors have returned from St. Louis, Mo., where Dr. Neighbors attended a meeting of the National Dentists Association.

Mr. and Mrs. K. G. McRae and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Erwin were Sunday visitors with relatives and friends in Little Rock.

Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Allison have as house guest, Dr. Allison's sister, Mrs. E. A. Cole of Conway.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Crews announce the marriage of their daughter, Bonnie, to Gordon H. Beckworth. The ceremony was read on Saturday evening October 29, at the home of the officiant, Mrs. Gladine Morris, Justice of the Peace. They were attended by Mrs. Leslie Merritt and Tommie Ruggles.

Mr. and H. D. Coffman had as week end guests, Mrs. Coffman's sister, Mrs. Joe Sessions and son, John Paul of Idabel, Okla.

The Mary Brown Brittain Junior G. A. Girls of the First Baptist church, met at the church on Friday afternoon with Mrs. W. R. Hamilton in charge of the Mission Study. On Saturday they enjoyed a Halloween party at the home of Miss Isabel Schooley on the Blevins road. Thirty-two members were present and after a number of interesting games and contests, popcorn balls and peanuts were served by Mrs. J. R. Hoard, Mrs. Fonza Moses and Mrs. Jesse Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wingfield have returned from a five weeks stay in Hot Springs, and friends will be glad to know that Mr. Wingfield has fully recovered from his recent illness.

The Bay View reading club will meet at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. M. Bryant, North Washington street with Mrs. T. R. Billingsley as joint hostess and Mrs. Arch Moore lending the program on "The Oregon Trail."

The Oghem School of Dancing (the older pupils) and invited friends enjoyed a very delightful Halloween dance on Saturday evening at the studio on South Main street. The studio was beautifully decorated in the Halloween motif, including the var-

Dick Huddleston to Be at Ozan This Monday

Dick Huddleston and Cedric Weehunt, characters in the Lum and Abner radio sketches, with their Pine Ridge Band will appear in person at a Halloween program to be given at the Ozan public school building at 7:30 p. m., Monday, October 31.

The Pine Ridge Band has made numerous tours over the United States advertising Arkansas. Their programs and the effectiveness of their advertising policies have been acclaimed widely. This group of simple, philosophical merry-makers has perhaps been one of the most influential factors in bringing about the great increases in the number of tourists and in the amount of tourist trade in Arkansas for the past two years.

The board is composed of Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy of the North Carolina Supreme Court, who served on similar boards in the Coolidge and Harding administrations; Dean James M. Landis of the Harvard Law School, and Prof. Harry A. Mills of the University of Chicago.

Reconsideration of Railroad Industry Advocated. After detailing reasons for its findings, the board said it had been impressed "with the necessity that now rests on the government for a complete and thoroughgoing consideration of the relationship of the railroad industry to our national well-being."

Both rail management and labor, the report said, "now have a vital and common concern in the working out of an adequate, national transportation policy."

The board said was hopeful that "a more far-seeing financial policy can be pursued by management with the cooperation of government." Such a policy, it added, should be designed to avoid the financial losses of the past and eliminate the creation of corporate structures with "too little flexibility" to permit them to survive periods of depressed business.

Just such a thing as is happening now happened last year. Rice lost two, tied one in its first three games and then roared in to win the pennant. But they didn't beat TCU.

Ernie Lain and Scot Sullivan may be in shape to play next Saturday against Arkansas at Fayetteville. They will be needed for the Razorbacks looked fearsome in dropping a 13-7 game to the Texas Aggies in the final two minutes.

Should Rice make the Arkansas hurdle next Saturday, the finish of the conference race should be merry as usual—not a Texas Christian party.

The Aggie power will be on review at Dallas Saturday in a tilt with Southern Methodist, winner over improving Texas, 7-6. The Methodists, still sort of a mystery team, get a real test before the homefolk against the Aggies' explosive ground play.

Texas, inching closer to victory each week after six straight setbacks, will be laying for Baylor when they invade Austin. The Baylor's took punishment from Texas Christian's diving backs and massive linemen, but should be ready for the Longhorns.

for the past two years. It has been a pleasure to me to have served in that capacity for I feel that by so doing I have been able to contribute my service in a worthwhile attempt to alleviate the suffering of humanity in my native country.

"Of course it is common knowledge that the position of county chairman of the American Red Cross is one which affords no financial compensation. Likewise, at times the duties are not very arduous; but, as you will recall, during the past year because of the Fulton flood and the south county tornado, the activities of the local chapter were greatly increased. Approximately $5,000 was distributed in this county during the past year helping to alleviate the suffering of distress of 313 Hemstead county families.

"I appreciate the assistance of all the people of Hemstead county, who in the past have aided in making possible the services rendered, by the local chapter.

"However, a promotion in my business, necessitating my opening of headquarters in Texarkana, compels me to resign as chairman of the Hemstead County Chapter. I, therefore, hereby publicly tender my resignation, having officially done so prior to now.

"It affords me a great pleasure, however, in leaving the work in the capable hands of Mrs. Kline Snyder, who has not only been vice-chairman, but a very active assistant in the Red Cross work in the county. Mrs. Flora Cotton Slater, chairman of the home service, has assisted me unreservedly in promoting the Red Cross work. I also appreciate the co-operation of Dr. James G. Martindale, first aid chairman, and that of Miss Menela Owens, secretary and treasurer, and the co-operation of the members of the board of directors. These fine people will be with you to carry on the work. I know you will co-operate with them as you have with me.

"As I leave you, the annual Red Cross Roll Call is at hand. By your contributions in the form of your joining the American Red Cross, you provide the funds with which the American Red Cross operates. Every adult American is eligible for membership. Fifty cents out of each membership goes to the National office; the balance remains with the local chapter to carry on the work in Hemstead county. Hemstead county's quota is one thousand members.

"I urge you, as your outgoing chairman, to join hands with Royce Weisenberger, who has consented to serve as Roll Call Chairman for 1938, and the other Roll Call workers, and put your county over the top.

"Respectfully submitted,

Styles for Older Women Have Dash

This Season's Fashions Make the Over-Par Figure Look Right

By ADELAIDE KERR

AP. Fashion Editor

Party clothes for the American clubwoman have color and dash this year.

Warm wines and plum-purples, suave blue-greens and mist blues flatter faces which are frankly forty. And dresses are cut to smarten lines that are not as lithe as they used to be. The best are designed to reflect maturity and conceal face and figure faults.

New party hats for clubwomen are turbans of twisted velvet in such color blends as dark plum, grayed mauve and smoky blue. There also are fur-trimmed toques and dark felts with rolling brims and a splash of color in a wing trim.

Since hats can make or break the appearance of the mature woman, consider these profile tips before making a choice:

Mature women generally look best in hats with an upward lift to the brim. Drooping brim lines hide the face and emphasize any drooping lines in it.

The hat most becoming to a woman with a double chin is usually one with a moderate brim, whose lines or trimming call attention to the top of the head and, thus, away from the lower part of the face.

Short veils cut the face line and tend to increase its appearance of width. They should be avoided by women whose faces and necks are over-plump.

New party dresses which the older woman can wear to bridge, an informal dinner or the theater, are designed of soft crepe or velvet in black and the new fall colors. The first thought in the selection of both fabric and design has been to achieve an effect of softness, flattering to the face and figure.

Severely and heaviness are gone. The clubwoman's problem of finding an evening dress she can wear on many occasions and which will conceal, instead of reveal, her figure faults, is settled with long-sleeved floor-length frock or a decollete evening gown topped by a long sleeved jacket.

These are the kindest of evening clothes to problem figures, since they tend to conceal big arms, thin necks and convex diaphragms.

Here are helps for choosing flattering party frocks for the woman whose weight is a worry:

Softly fitting bodices and sleeves make the outlines of a big arm less definite. High, tight armholes and sleeves which fit closely tend to emphasize its size.

A soft extension of an evening gown's shoulder line will cover a too-plump arm top and a reasonably high line under the arm will conceal an under-arm bulge. (These two defects often ruin the appearance of an older woman in evening clothes).

A long straight bolero or a still longer jacket which fits easily at the waistline, camouflages the lines of a bulging diaphragm.

It is almost universally true that the expansion of football and other athletic plants in connection with tax-supported schools has been financed by gate-receipts and not by taxes. Hope's "gate," we are told, has risen from only a few hundred dollars a year to between $5,000 and $6,000 a year—and the athletic department, which used to be an expense to the taxpayers, now pays its own way.

Mr. Sullivan has written a good letter. We only add this footnote to cover a frequently-misunderstood situation about athletics and the tax revenues.

Editor's Note: The Star, while agreeing with Mr. Sullivan in his attack on the proposed poll tax elimination, takes exception to his statement that, "We are spending too much money for the overhead expenses of our high schools for football and other exercises."

The following is a synopsis of one of Pamela Wynne's greatest books, "Priscilla Falls in Love."

"If Priscilla, beautiful, mature and unawakened had not decided on that hotel in Switzerland she would never have met Phillip Harden."

If Rosemary, very young and very lovely had not married an Indian doctor, she would never have met Colonel

How Rosemary's ayah matched her wits against her two countrymen and thus paved the way to happiness for her beloved mistress makes one of Pamela Wynne's most engrossing and engaging love stories.

Five good books that everyone will enjoy are the following:

Fiction
"A Modern Jezebel," by Irene Nemirovsky.

"I Want You Myself," by Anna Brand.

"Homing," by Grace L. Hill.

Non-Fiction
"Red Star Over China," Edgar Snow.

"Our Amazing Earth," by Carrol Lane Fenton.

European war scare seems to be the last barrier removed.—H. J. Klinger, Detroit automobile executive.

The money was too slow coming.—Francis Spaulding, prospective heir to a $390,000 fortune, explaining to a Los Angeles judge why he stole $40.

The only menace to the Democratic party lies in the dis-union that comes from too much prosperity.—Postmaster General Farley.

We Should Learn to Speak the Language of Europe

It is nearly a quarter of a century since the United States had its first great row over military preparedness.

When Woodrow Wilson launched a huge naval building campaign shortly before America's entrance into the World War, the drive received a very mixed reception. Welcomed by some, it drew bitter opposition from others. The average citizen went along with it and paid the bills without too much grumbling, but he probably never did feel that the whole business was really necessary. And when the post-war Washington conference eased the road he felt that things had as last got back to normal again.

Now we are coming up to anew preparedness campaign; and this time it is doubtful that there will be one-tenth of the opposition there was before. The world is a different sort of place now, and the American people have had an unmistakable object lesson or two about the change.

It is true that we have been spending huge sums on our army and navy for several years. Both arms of the service are probably far more nearly ready for war than at any previous time in American history. But the President apparently feels that what might be called normal peace-time preparedness is no longer good enough. This is a day of super-armaments, and no nation that wishes to make its voice heard can afford to be outclassed.

For international relations today are conducted, unhappily enough, over the sharp edge of a drawn sword. Recent events in central Europe make it all too clear that sheer power has the last word nowadays. Britain and France backed down in the Czech crisis, not because their statesmen were cowards, but because it was perfectly obvious that the other side carried too many guns.

So a program of re-armament does not mean that we are getting ready to fight somebody. It simply means that we are making certain that our voice shall be heard if it becomes necessary for us to speak. And we do not need to look all the way to central Europe for signs that we may eventually want to do some talking.

The great dictator nations are compelled to look ceaselessly for new resources to exploit, new fields to penetrate, new areas to bring under their sway. South America lies open before them. Mexico looms a tempting morsel; we might as well realize that the advance agents of European imperialism are busy in our own back yard, offering a still-unrealized but nevertheless direct threat to our vital interests.

And America fully able to strike a swift and crushing blow would be listened to; and America unable to do so might be ignored—and in consequence there might easily develop a situation in which war was the only solution.

We have no wish to meddle in Europe's quarrels. But if Europe thrusts a quarrel on us, we should be ready with the right sort of answer.

The number of farms in the South increased more than 400 per cent from 1880 to 1938, while acres in cultivation dropped from 194,296,000 to 188,542,000.

Soil experts estimate 76,000,000 acres of land that are now being cropped in the United States should be taken out of cultivation.

SERIAL STORY

MURDER TO MUSIC

BY NARD JONES

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
MYRNA DOMBEY—heroine.
Wife of the sensational swing band leader.

ROBERT TAIT—hero. Newspaper photographer, detective.

ANNE LESTER—Myrna's closest friend.

DANNIE FEELEY—officer assigned to investigate Ludden Dombey's murder.

Yesterday: The newspaper and Tait runs is answered. A messenger brings the answer to Tait's room. Evidently, he wonders if it contains Myrna's freedom, solves the murder.

CHAPTER XXV

DANNIE FEELEY, his long, old-fashioned nightgown trailing beneath a battered bathrobe, opened his front door and blinked at Bob Tait.

"For the love of Mike," he growled, "have you got a conspiracy on to keep me from sleeping, Tait? In the devil's black of this mornin' you ring me out of bed by telephone—and tonight you pound on my own peaceful door at 11."

"You'll be glad I did," Tait said, stepping inside. "Dannie—I've found the musician we're looking for!"

"George Weeks? You're crazy!" Tait grinned excitedly. "Maybe. I was crazy enough to play my hunch and put that ad in the Personal column. And I got this." He handed Feeley the letter he had received from the messenger half an hour before.

Bewildered, Feeley read the letter. Then read it again, this time aloud: "Dear Sir—I can write a song similar to the one you mention in your classified item in the paper. In fact, I can tell you some things about that song which may surprise you. If you want to talk to me I will be in the lobby of the Pacific-Plaza Hotel at 3 o'clock tomorrow. I will be standing by the Number 4 elevator. Yours very truly, G. K. Weeks."

FEELEY looked up. "The guy is nuts."

"At least slightly. That's what I banked on when I put the ad in the paper. He couldn't stand to have it rubbed in—and no doubt the $10,000 had something to do with it."

"What ten thousand?" said Feeley wryly. He shoved the letter into his bathrobe pocket. "All right. You started this. What do we do now?"

"You become a song publisher and interview Mr. Weeks."

Feeley rumbled his thinning hair. "Why don't you be the song publisher?"

"There's the chance that Mr. Weeks may know me, and know that I'm the manager of The Swingsters. Remembering a certain night in the Millbay district, I think it's a good chance, too. So I'll go along with you and pretend I'm interested because my band will introduce and plug the song that you select to publish."

"Okay, Bob. I've been everything else, I might as well try acting a song publisher. Got any idea how they act?"

"Sure. They act dumb—like a detective," Tait laughed. "You won't have any trouble."

"Get out of here," Feeley roared. "And I'll meet you in front of the main entrance of the Pacific-Plaza at a quarter until 3 tomorrow."

"Good!" Tait said. "By the way, did you have Neida Starr watched?"

Feeley nodded. "Mike Dunphy's been watching her. She stayed in her apartment after you left her, apparently, and then about 10 o'clock tonight she went down to the Golden Bowl. Mike 'phoned me from there. I told him to stick with her."

"Was Rogers with her?"

"No. He may have gone after you left—or he may still be in the apartment. Mike had one of his men stick around to see if Rogers came out and where he went if he did come out. I haven't heard from him, so I guess there's nothing on that."

Tait pulled a magazine from his pocket. "I don't know whether it's anything or not, Dannie—but look at this."

It was the reprint comics magazine which Tait had picked up in Neida Starr's apartment.

"Thanks," Dannie said. "I like comics."

"Listen, Mr. Feeley, look at that advertisement on the back."

Dannie looked. It was the advertisement of a novelty company in Minneapolis. It offered and illustrated at least two dozen odds and ends appealing to boys. Plans for auto racers, X-ray boxes, chameleons, turtles, a book on ventriloquism, invisible ink. Dannie grinned. "Yeah. I used to send for a lot of stuff like this when I was a kid. Once I got a chameleon. I put it on the linoleum in our kitchen. It was checkered linoleum, and the darned thing died trying to make good."

"That's an old joke, Dannie. Look down there in the lower left-hand corner."

Feeley looked. Then he raised his eyes to Tait's. "Well, what do you know about that?"

"I don't know anything about it yet. But I do know it advertises a gadget to make a noise

Better Growth and Greater Vigor From Diets With Eggs

Nowadays when so much is being written about dangerous foods and the control of food handlers and similar subjects, we ought to realize that certain foods are protected by nature. Among these foods eggs are particularly important because they are listed with the protective foods—those that contain the essential minerals, proteins, carbohydrates, fats and the vitamins that are necessary to life and to maintain growth.

Most of the white of egg is a pure protein, but it has been found to contain as well a small amount of minerals and some vitamin G, the second part of vitamin B. Some children get the habit of eating the white of egg alone and a smaller number seem to prefer the yolks. The latter group are better off because it is known that the yolk provides vitamins A, B, D, and G, as well as fats, protein and minerals.

Following are the qualities of eggs which make them especially useful in the diet of the growing child. These qualities caused Dr. Mary Swartz Rose to write: "Long experiments in feeding diets, with and without egg, have shown that although excellent growth can be secured on a ration of milk, vegetables and cereal, better growth and greater vigor are obtained when a daily portion of egg is included."

Iron.—Eggs are richer in iron than milk, and among the best foods for supplying this necessary ingredient to the building of red blood.

Calcium.—Eggs contain a little calcium but cannot compare with milk and milk products for supplying this substance necessary for sound bones and teeth.

Phosphorus.—Eggs are specially rich in phosphorus, and the research shows that phosphorus is absolutely for the building of bone along with calcium, and that it also is concerned with the nervous system.

Vitamins.—Except for the fish oils like cod liver oil and halibut liver oil, the richest source of vitamin D in the average American diet. Vitamin A, usually found associated with D as a fat soluble vitamin, is also profuse

Children Can Learn Father Is Not a Goose Who Will Lay Golden Eggs Forever

With little children we say, "That is too expensive, and we can't afford it," but gradually with the years they acquire the wisdom to see reasons for economy and their responsibility to help with it.

Parents often allow these big boys and girls to think the source of income greater than it is. Priddy keeps a father from acknowledging that he is in debt because of their demands. Mothers shrink from saying that spending money is not plentiful. Then these youngsters get a happy idea of money and its limitations. They are quick to think that a rattle of silver in our purse means largess; or that the bills dad pulls out of his pocket could buy them the coveted present if he felt generous.

Put Pride in Pocket

I am quite sure that every business transaction of parents need not be aired before the children; but I am quite positive that most of them may be family knowledge after the children are in their teens. We should put our pride right in our pockets along with the coal money and tell them exactly how things stand.

The child who won't cooperate after learning how close to the wind we ride, is not worth his salt. But really there is a lot of decency and intelligence in boys and girls of this age. Give them a chance.

I think it an excellent idea for fathers to take their sons to their places of business for a day or two and explain that money is hard to earn. I think it just as good a plan for mother to show their growing girls how to save on one purchase so as to make the money stretch for another.

Teach How to Buy

As buying is an art, it is right to teach them how to shop. Mary should be taught how to market. She can learn to inquire about the price of different cuts (changing as they do with each day) and buy the best bargain offer. And John should learn to get bids on the bicycle-repair job. Let them buy many of their own clothes. Show them how.

n eggs. The various parts of vitamin B are also found in eggs.

The easy digestibility of eggs is so well known that they are included in most diets for invalids. When eggs are properly cooked their digestion and absorption is improved. There is nothing about a raw egg that makes it superlatively better than a cooked egg. Since eggs supplement milk in the very ingredients in which milk is deficient the combination of eggs and milk is recognized as a most satisfying food combination. The proper cooking of an egg means the use of a low temperature which will not completely coagulate and toughen the white of the egg.

When eggs are bought they should be kept in the refrigerator or in a cool place free from odor because eggs, like milk, will pick up materials that modify the taste and the quality. Fresh eggs lend themselves to many different purposes and even at fairly high prices are cheap because of the essential constituents that they make available.

Money saved in banks is good training, but it lacks personality. It needs to be supplemented the best for the least is real thrift. So is doing without. I am not advocating stinginess, but children of adolescent age must learn control. They cannot go on forever thinking that an obliging goose gives.

Give the young adolescent enough money for weekly needs; but an allowance is supposed to teach limit, and if supplemented by borrowing or gifts it teaches nothing at all.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catten

Book on Tecumseh Tells of Courage.

Somewhere between the "red variants" and the "noble red man" schools of writing about the Indians, the truth must lie.

John M. Oskison, who is proud of the Cherokee blood in his veins, has kept to that middle ground in "Tecumseh and His Times" (Putnam: $2.75).

A natural pride in a blood tie to the race which produced Tecumseh, King Philip, Pontiac, Logan, Osceola, and Sequoyah has set the tone of this life of a great Indian leader, and leads to a rather disparaging picture of William Henry Harrison, the nemesis who pursued Tecumseh until the latter's death at the Battle of the Thames in 1812.

But it is the picture of Tecumseh that matters, and without over-idealization, Oskison has drawn a fine figure of a man who refused to permit the slaughter of wounded and bent men (can every civilized race say so much today) and prevented the torture of prisoners (one hears of instances even today).

Tecumseh was one with Pontiac and the other Indian leaders who dreamed of wide federations of scattered tribes to halt the onward push of white settlers into Indian lands. Partly at least because of the irresponsibility of his brother, "The Prophet," Tecumseh's dream was doomed to failure, but not without a certain dignity. Tecumseh himself had qualities of honesty and courage that are never lost.

To American civilization, the product of many peoples, these first Americans have contributed much. Oskison's book gives a needed reminder of that contribution.—W. T.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel germy mucus.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)
